

You are looking for affection and someone to cherish you. You are looking for that special person to love and be intimate with you. You have tried everything that you can think of to make it happen. You have prayed. You have struggled. You have cried. Your heart and your life have felt empty. Yet I Jesus have been calling out to you. I want to use your loneliness and emptiness so that I can hold you and love you. I will give you true and lasting love and real relationships. I alone can give you true riches and joy. Come to Me and enter the kingdom of heaven. Come to your true and faithful friend. I know why your heart is aching. Come and rest in My loving arms. Then I will give you love that will change your heart and your world now and forever.