

When you meet Me my precious child you will be filled with awe and wonder. I am exciting and overwhelming. You will be thrilled with my surprises. You will be touched by My tenderness and caressed by My love. You will be saturated by My peace, and glowing with My glory. You will have countless intimate friends that number more than the stars in the sky. You will move effortlessly across My universe. You will have extreme delight, and your happiness will not be measured by the heights and depths of the earth. You will experience endless worship, and unfathomable colors and harmonies. Keep choosing Me my love. All this and more awaits you.
