

I know that you are in rough waters. Your fortunes have gone up and down like the uncertain waves. The winds of fear, failure and disaster roar into your ears and slap at your face. I offer you a safe passage past the difficulties of life.

I have allowed these storms to reveal the condition of your hearts and the strength of your spirit. I have walked on the waters that you fear. I have silenced the storms of trouble. The answers you seek will be revealed. You are walking with Me. You are walking with Me in the blessing of the Father's love. The storms will be short but My blessing will last beyond millions of years. I reach out the arms of hope to you. Take them.